Les conseils techniques de SASIC

En cas de durit percée en amont du turbo, de l'air pénètre dans le moteur sans être passé par le débitmètre d'air. En conséquence, vous obtiendrez une perturbation de la régulation de la vanne EGR et une limitation des performances du moteur.

En cas de durit percée en sortie de turbo, il y a une perte d'air vers l'atmosphère : la quantité d'air qui pénètre dans les cylindres diminue mais pas la quantité de carburant. Cela a pour conséquence la formation de fumées. De plus, le calculateur d'injection va chercher à réguler la pression de suralimentation. Pour cela il va compenser la perte d'air en forçant le turbo à tourner plus vite, d'où un risque de casse de turbo.

Il est possible de détecter une fuite sur une durit de turbo. Les symptômes les plus identifiables sont le bruit, la fumée ou la perte de puissance du moteur.

SASIC technical advice

In case of a bored hose upstream the turbo, the air flow meter will not check all the quantity of air entering the engine. Thus, engine performances will not be optimized.

In case of a bored hose downstream the turbo, there is a air leak in the atmosphere: Air entering the cylinder is lower but the quantity of fuel is stable. Smoke will be visible. Moreover the injection calculator will try to regulate the supercharging pressure: to compensate the air leak, it will make the turbo turn faster, with the risk of turbo break.

A turbo hose leak is visible: noise, smoke or decrease of engine power output should appear.
